Believe...

Date : December 29, 2014

The most important thing when undertaking a new challenge is to believe you can do it. If you do not believe you can do it, who will? If you do not believe you can do it, you're probably right. Lack of belief is self-defeating and it's a drag. Who would put any significant time and energy into something they believe is pointless, fruitless, and unattainable? Believe first. Then do.
